Chapter 1 by nerdy 10001

It was a late fall day, I remember it to this day. My family and I were fishing and we saw something that still makes the hair on my back stand up. It was a hairy man, it was about 8 to 9 feet tall. I mean this sucker was huge. The only thing that creeps me out is what it was doing, it was not doing anything to harm anything. It was pacing across the treeline . It was also waking in this weird way swaying in a weird way, almost in a way as if it had an extra joint or something. It swayed with every step all in uniform. No step different it was also piking up random rocks and throwing them in a way I will never forget. Its arm almost curved with every stroke. Like a bats wings when it flies. The way it bent wasn't a weird bend but a unique way in witch no one has ever accomplished. Another thing that it was doing creeps me out. It was breaking off small trees and staking item in a tepee. It was also eating something but not something it killed but something that was killed the night before by a pack of wolves. I could tell it was killed by a pack of wolves because it was all ready lying on the treeline so these (Bigfoot) creatures are harmless. It might of ate the deer bot it also had a pile of other bones and also another creepy thing. Right next to its, tepee it was a cross and there was a pile of flowers and the riches dirt iv'e ever seen. I think that they berry there dead too. I think we should leave them in peace as they have left us.:):):):):):):):):):):):):):):):)
